

Miss Crocker and Mr. Henry G. Holt Soon to Be Married

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Longfellow Crocker to Be a Bride.

Miss Elizabeth Crocker and Mr. Henry Gilbert Holt, whose engagement was made known last summer to their immediate friends, but was not publicly announced, will be married November 4. The wedding guests will be limited to the families.

Miss Crocker is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Longfellow Crocker of 122 East Seventy-third street and sister of Miss Charity Crocker, now in her first year at Vassar. She is a member of the Junior League. She was educated abroad, returning last spring to spend the summer with her parents at North Haven, Me. Mr. Holt, whose home is in Great Neck, is in business in New York and Cleveland. He was graduated from Yale in 1910 and was a Scull and Crewman.

MISS M'CORMICK AND FIANCE LEAVE LUCERNE Take Quarters in Ancient Convent on Lake Biene.

LUCERNE, Switzerland, Oct. 17.—Max Oser, Swiss riding master, and his young American fiancée, Miss Mathilde M'Cormick, with other members of her family, have moved from the border of Lake Lucerne to the little town of Biene, on Lake Biene. They are occupying the ancient convent where Jean Jacques Rousseau, the French philosopher and author, lived in solitude for several months in 1765.

The Over-McCormick party took several horses with them, and they make frequent trips to the neighboring lakes, particularly to the little town of Biene.

ENGAGED TO EUGENE KELLY.

Miss Marie Louise Baldwin to Be His Bride.

Announcement was made yesterday here and in San Francisco of the engagement of Miss Marie Louise Baldwin, daughter of Mr. William Sproule, of 1150 Sacramento street, San Francisco, to Mr. Eugene Kelly of this city and Huntington, L. I. Miss Baldwin is the daughter of Mr. William Sproule, president of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and she was graduated from the Spence School here. She has received much of her education in Europe and since then from time to time has been in New York with her mother and stepfather.

Mr. Kelly is a son of the late Robert J. Kelly, his mother, who was Miss Dorothy Van Schaick, the daughter of the late Jenkins Van Schaick, for many years a member of the New York Stock Exchange. He also is a namesake and grandson of the late Eugene Kelly, a prominent banker in New York. During the summer Mr. Kelly lives with his mother and brother, Mr. Robert E. Kelly, at Kalmia, their home in Huntington, L. I. He is a member of the Army and Navy Club and the Aero Club of America and is a Second Lieutenant in the Sixty-first Cavalry Division Reserve.

The marriage of Miss Baldwin and Mr. Kelly will take place in the Cathedral of St. Patrick on January 6. Archbishop Hanna officiating. A large reception will follow at the home of the bride, Mrs. William Sproule, afterwards Mr. Kelly and his bride will go to Europe. They will live at Huntington.

KNIGHT TO WED MRS. HILL.

Washington Woman Engaged to Mr. George Rose.

Special Cable to The New York Herald. Copyright, 1922, by The New York Herald.

Paris, Oct. 17.—Mrs. H. Morgan Hill, wife of the late Mr. H. Morgan Hill, who spent much of her time in Europe, has announced informally to friends her engagement to Mr. George Rose, a wealthy widower with two children. The latter, who is a close friend of Mrs. Hill, approves the match.

The wedding will take place in England, probably in November.

COMING BY THE MAJESTIC.

Mr. J. J. Finner and Horse Owner, a Passenger.

Special Cable to The New York Herald. Copyright, 1922, by The New York Herald.

New York, Oct. 17.—Among the passengers who will leave New York on the steamship Majestic, which will be captained by Mr. J. J. Finner, will be Mr. J. J. Finner, a horse owner, and his wife, Mrs. Finner, who will be accompanied by their children. The ship will be captained by Mr. J. J. Finner, a horse owner, and his wife, Mrs. Finner, who will be accompanied by their children. The ship will be captained by Mr. J. J. Finner, a horse owner, and his wife, Mrs. Finner, who will be accompanied by their children.

CARUSO LINES ON DISPLAY.

Will Feature Jewish Philanthropies Exhibition Today.

Lines valued at thousands of dollars which were among the wedding gifts and treasures of Mrs. Finner, who will be on display today at the Hotel Pennsylvania in connection with the Jewish Philanthropies Exhibition. The exhibition will be held at the Hotel Pennsylvania from October 18 to 20. It will feature the wedding gifts and treasures of Mrs. Finner, who will be on display today at the Hotel Pennsylvania in connection with the Jewish Philanthropies Exhibition.

PRINCE IN MOTOR COLLISION.

Christian of Denmark Runs Car Into Railroad Gate.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 17.—Crown Prince Christian of Denmark narrowly escaped injury while driving his automobile into Copenhagen last night. His car crashed into a gate at a grade crossing but it was lowered for an approaching train. The automobile rebounded to safety as the train whirled by without injury to the occupants.

To Be a Bride

Miss Elizabeth Crocker.

PERSONAL INTELLIGENCE.

NEW YORK.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Davis are at the Vanderbilt.

Mr. James W. Wadsworth has come from Washington to the Belmont for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander S. Webb of Old Westbury, L. I., are at the Ambassador Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Mellon have returned to Convent, N. J., from Southampton.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucius K. Wilmerding have opened their house at 18 East Seventy-seventh street.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey M. Depew and Mr. Stuyvesant Fish are stopping at the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club.

Mrs. Chester Griswold and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Le Grand C. Griswold, have returned from Southampton.

Miss Julia A. Berwind is at the Plaza. Mr. and Mrs. William H. Sage will have an apartment there this winter.

Mrs. Robert R. Hitt of Washington is at the Ritz-Carlton. Mrs. Edward Thaw left that hotel yesterday for Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mansfield Ogden of Tuxedo sail by the Tuscania, October 26, for Genoa to pass the winter on the Riviera.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Huntington will close their house at 2 East Fifty-seventh street to-day and go to California.

Miss Louise Scott, who returned recently from a long stay abroad, has moved into her new apartment at 430 Park avenue.

Mrs. Robert Goetz's luncheon guests yesterday at the Margery included Mrs. Mortimer L. Schiff and Mrs. J. Louis Warden. Mrs. L. Havemeyer Butcher entertained there for Mrs. George B. St. George and Miss Lucie Baldwin.

Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., will give a tea at the Grace Dodge Hotel in Washington to-day, to celebrate the first anniversary of the hotel. Wives of the Cabinet members are among the guests expected.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Freilinger, and Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Drayton and Miss George B. St. George of Tuxedo Park and Mrs. Robert Lee Gamble of Providence, R. I., are at the St. Regis. Miss Marion Kemp gave a dinner party there last evening.

Mrs. L. Townsend Burden's guests at luncheon yesterday at Sherry's were Miss Evelyn Byrd Burden and Mrs. Henry Clews. Mr. and Mrs. Alvin W. Knech had a dinner party there last evening for Mr. and Mrs. William G. Sharp.

Miss Mary McKee of Des Moines, Ia., is the guest of the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Wallace.

Capt. Jean P. J. E. Rigal, naval attaché of the French Embassy, has returned to Washington from France.

Mrs. Lindsay Russell of New York has loaned Mrs. John J. Hemphill's house in Hancock place for the winter.

Mr. William A. Slater has returned to New York to spend the greater part of the winter.

Mrs. L. C. Ferris and Miss Kate Ferris, who visited the Ambassador of Peru and Mme. Paret, have returned to New York.

Mrs. Charles S. Whitman, wife of former Gov. Whitman of New York, entertained guests at dinner at the Willard last night.

The Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Denby have as guest Mrs. Denby's aunt, Mrs. George L. Canfield of Detroit. Secretary and Mrs. Denby will go to Boston to-morrow.

Miss Margaret Harding is in New York to be bridesmaid at the marriage to-morrow of Miss Margaret Dimick, daughter of Mr. Archibald M. McKee, to William S. Gray, Jr.

Mrs. Harding has been permitted to receive her first visitor since her illness became critical, and one of her close friends was with her a short time Monday afternoon.

Brig.-Gen. Charles G. Dawes has gone to Chicago after spending the week end as the guest of President Harding. He expects to join Gen. Pershing early next month on a shooting trip in Utah.

Mrs. Albert Bissell, daughter of Postmaster-General and Mrs. Work, was the guest yesterday of Mrs. Hugh Cumming, who gave a tea for her. First Assistant Postmaster-General and Mrs. John H. Bartlett gave a dinner for her Monday night.

At Washington Hotels.

New York arrivals at Washington hotels include:

The Shoreham—Messrs. Gutrie Hunter, H. G. Kopley, John N. Groves and A. G. Duberry.

The Washington—Messrs. J. S. Stanley, P. W. Crane, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Shays, Lieut.-Col. E. A. Simmons, Messrs. J. K. Codina, Charles Frost and N. A. Kelly.

The Willard—Mr. K. A. Fisher, Mr. C. R. Lamond, Messrs. A. J. Leonard, W. T. Hamilton, W. A. Daly and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Peters.

WINSTON CHURCHILL BETTER.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Winston Churchill, Secretary for the Colonies, taken ill yesterday, was somewhat better to-day. He had acute gastritis.

First Orchestral Concert Given by Stokowski's Men

Philadelphia Orchestra Gives Opening Program of Wagner, Beethoven and Strauss.

By W. J. HENDERSON.

The trumpets, trombones and horns of Wagner sounded the first clarion tones of the season's orchestral concerts last evening in Carnegie Hall. It was not one of the local organizations to which fell the distinction of leading the procession of instrumental battalions, but the Philadelphia Orchestra, arriving like a true Hippodrome show, "bigger and better than ever." Leopold Stokowski continues to be the only conductor of this organization. It takes several to direct each of the New York orchestras, but Stokowski, like Shakespeare's Colossus, can say, "Alone I did it boy."

The program presented for the delectation of New Yorkers by the visiting musicians consisted of the prelude to "Die Meistersinger," Beethoven's fourth symphony, and Richard Strauss's tone poem, "A Hero's Life." Mr. Stokowski made his Wagnerian exordium a sonorous and glowing proclamation of the splendors of his orchestra, sometimes a trifle cloudy perhaps, but filled with vitality and the communicative eloquence of the great masterpiece.

Beethoven's fourth symphony is not often played and music lovers are regularly invited to discover the reason in its unforced situation between the heroic third and the mighty fifth. But since these two works are not performed in the same program as the fourth, the familiar description of the B flat as "a slender Greek maid between two Norse giants" loses its importance.

It is more credible that the comparative neglect of the fourth is attributable to its main refusal to lend itself to the stormy dramatization or shifting panorama of surprises which the prima donna conductor calls a "reading," designed to arouse the incipient mob and the "clown of indolent reviewers."

Herein may one, indeed, perceive the Greco-Latin of the fourth symphony.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra. But the slow movement was performed with ravishing beauty, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski made no attempt to astonish his audience. He did try to play the work through without pause between the movements, a proceeding which was hampered by the determined efforts of a small body of anxious applauders. He took the first movement, a brisk tempo, too brief, and the finale at a speed high enough to tax the virtuosity of his orchestra.

MRS. M. RUTHERFORD MILLS BRIDE OF SIR PAUL DUKES

Devoted Many Years of Her Life to Charitable Projects.

Lady Paul Dukes.

Continued from First Page.

Stuyvesant Rutherford, and that her marriage to Sir Paul would be her second marriage.

Sir Paul Dukes is widely known because of his extensive writings on political and economic conditions in Russia before, during and since the war. For eighteen months he was a representative of the British Intelligence Service in Russia under the Soviet Government, and had a narrow escape from death. He was knighted in 1920 for valuable services to the British Government.

He is a son of the Rev. E. T. Dukes of Bridgewater, England, and received his early education at the Catterham School in England. He then came to this country to study music.

After that Sir Paul served a year as chief of the British intelligence service in Soviet Russia. Subsequently he was reconciled she will take the necessary measures for a final decree.

The marriage is in the present in Paris and the Princess is expected to return to the United States, who will spend the winter with her.

The marriage of Miss Draper to Prince Boncompagni was celebrated October 25, 1916, at the Draper home in Washington. The ceremony was performed by Cardinal Gibbons, a friend of the Prince and his bride.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

The bride was followed by a large number of guests, including Mr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.